

Dear all

In this week's digest:

- The 4th Australasian Commodity Markets Conference is being held from 7–8 April as a hybrid event, with the in-person conference based at Macquarie University City Campus, 123 Pitt Street (Angel Place), Sydney, Australia. Details and paper/abstract submission at <https://www.mq.edu.au/research/research-centres-groups-and-facilities/prosperous-economies/centres/centre-for-risk-analytics/news-and-events/4th-australasian-commodity-markets-conference>
- A unique Congress called “Sustainability Research and Innovation (SRI) 2022 Oceania Satellite Event” will be held this June. This sustainability-focused event will be at the QUT campus in Brisbane from June 29 – July 1, and bring together a transdisciplinary mix of attendees from industry, academia, Indigenous groups, government representatives, and civil society to discuss and generate solutions for major sustainability challenges in the Oceania region. The call for session proposals is open now until March 14th, and offers an opportunity to shape the conversation and create some great new networks and projects. The sessions are flexible in format and you can really be creative in how you want to pitch them and which partners you'd like to target or bring along. Please consider putting in a session proposal and joining us for the event. Questions can be directed to futureearthaustralia@science.org.au.
